

SHIPS LAND AT WALDORF

Battery Newsgatherers Desert Post to Have "Feed."

SOOTHING HAWAIIAN AIRS

Mary Garden Couldn't Attend, but Collector Loeb Was There and Made a Speech.

That particular species of reporter which worries the waterfront for news and badgers and hatters incoming globe trotters celebrated last night the busy infancy of the Ship News Reporters' Association with a dinner at the Waldorf. William Loeb, Jr., the Collector of the Port; a drove of city editors, a sprinkling of steamship men and some stage folk were numbered among the guests, not to mention "Doc" Ferry, "Boston Jack" McDonald, "Winnie" Sheehan, Harry and Eddie Rascovar and "Bill" McLaughlin, the "Wurra, wurra," man.

Mary Garden had said she would go, too, but Skipper Baucher, who presided, held a conversation with her Saturday over the long distance telephone from Boston which presaged disappointment, and received last night a note from her, dispatched from the Ritz-Carlton, saying she was too worn out with the exacting roles she had essayed in Boston to grace the occasion. Stella Mayhew and Melville Ells hurried down from the Winter Garden, however, after they had given their evening performances, to help cheer the game up, while W. B. J. Aeko's orchestra from "The Bird of Paradise" played soothing Hawaiian airs.

"It's Like No 'Like'" was one of them. It means "Sweet Constancy" in the mother tongue of ship news, and as soon as the reporters learned this fact they applauded vigorously. "Aloha Oe" was another, the Hawaiian farewell song. This also got a hand, as they say, and a big one, amid exclamations of "Good night" which were in no sense addressed to the orchestra. And then those Kanakas broke loose on "Where the River Shannon Flows," accompanied by the audible expansion of "Bill" McLaughlin, "ED" Curtis, "Davy" Morrissey and O'Duffy McGregor McDonald—especially O'Duffy McGregor McDonald.

Her Baucher spoke first, of course, being the toastmaster, and after he had read Mary Garden's note and said a modest word or two about the ship news organization he introduced Mr. Loeb.

"When I first came to New York," began the Collector hopefully, "the reporters looked upon me with suspicion."

Great applause.

The speaker considered his hosts a credit to the race, he said, and just as good as other reporters.

Skipper Southworth, of "The World," followed him with a catalogue of the requirements of competent ship news, which must have impressed the city editors. Then came "Bill" McLaughlin with some remarks about the "types of the deep," intended and accepted as humorous. Both he and Southworth agreed that one of the necessary qualities of a ship newser was an ability to play poker.

There were present among the city editors Charles Chapin, George Burdick and William A. Thayer, and among the steamship men James C. Horton, former general passenger agent of the Savannah Line; Ewan Justice, of the North German Lloyd; Matthew Clawson, of the Hamburg-American, and T. J. Stead, of the Cunard Line.

YALE HAS MEASLES SCARE

One Hundred Freshmen Sent Home on Easter Holiday.

(By Telegraph to The Tribune.)

New Haven, March 31.—Three freshman dormitories at Yale have been declared closed for the present and all their occupants have been sent home because of a dozen cases of measles which have already been reported. The dormitories are all off the campus, and the university authorities state that they do not expect the disease will spread to any appreciable extent on the campus.

The houses are all owned by private capital and are known as private dormitories. They are all located in York street, at Nos. 25, 26 and 29, respectively. About one hundred members of the freshman class room in these houses, and the order of the officials affects them all. The spring vacation will begin on Wednesday and will last until April 12.
